I currently work for Opie Oils, a large automotive oils, fluids & parts retailer, they have been my sole employer throughout my web development/design career. I have over 10 years of experience with code, design, and all things web/e-commerce. I've been part of numerous great projects with some globally recognisable automotive oil brands and had a fantastic time at the company, however, it's time for a change, time for a bigger career challenge.

I'm seeking an employer that encourages growth, understands the importance of sharpening skills, and has an environment that actively promotes modern technologies.

Experience

Opie Oils: Web & Systems Developer/Designer (2018 - Present)

Worked in conjunction with design agency Jaywing to produce the Castrol Ebay presence. Designed and headed up the majority of the production of a commercial oil sales website. Designed and developed a facelifted version of the Heating Oil Cornwall website. Helped design and Develop Millers Oils e-commerce shop. Helped implement multiple payment gates on the Opie Oils website, including Amazon Pay, PayPal & Judo Pay. Designed and helped develop a new vehicle registration lookup with service kit builder and vehicle garage functionality. Headed up multiple SEO and speed improvements, for Google Web Vital Core.

Opie Oils: Junior Web Developer/Designer (2014 - 2018)

Designed and developed one of the most extensive facelifts of the website to date. Designed and helped develop Opie Oil's Ebay presence (when Ebay shops were up and coming and of a more bespoke nature). Implemented and improved multiple front-end and admin systems increasing the efficiency of front-end UI/UX and admin system simplification. Produced website and bottle label design proposals for a new range of Gulf racing / classic oils.

Opie Oils: Webmaster (2010 - 2014)

Onboarded and maintained hundreds of new brands and thousands of products. Improved photography standards throughout the website. Supported marketing by producing flyers, leaflets, and media for car shows and various online and print advertisements, increasing brand presence and sales revenue.
